

Death Pact

After an enjoyable day at the races an elderly couple are attacked by two thugs. They are thrust against a wall, the terrified victims are assaulted and their property is being stolen. Suddenly a hand takes hold of one of attackers who is unceremoniously struck and then in an instant the other attacker likewise. Both thugs are instantly lying unconscious, the young man who saved the day says nothing, but simply walks away to cheers from the multitude that gathered. A year later on the Island of Madeira the old man who had been the victim in the attack is sitting sipping his beer, around the swimming pool of a very nice hotel. A young man arrives and sits at the next bed, he too is about to enjoy a drink, but of fruit juice. After a moment the new comer is disturbed when the old man speaks. He now recognises this young man as the one who rescued him and his wife from the clutches of the robbers. The two men commence a conversation when a nurse arrives with her patient in a wheelchair. When they have gone the old man relates that his wife never recovered from the attack upon them and now requires constant care. He continues that back in the United Kingdom he is a high court judge. He now speaks of his dissatisfaction with his profession, the weak punishments for criminals, and the lack of consideration for victims. The young man responds by relating a story which enthrals the judge. A serving soldier and a member of the Special Forces he was about to be made redundant. A man with a long military record and amongst his skills is that of a sniper. Arriving home one day Morris finds the police at his house. He learns that two youths have been in the process of stealing their expensive cars. Unfortunately Beryl Morris returns with their baby as the youths make their getaway, the cars strike mother and baby who are both killed. The thieves merely get charged with causing death by dangerous driving and attempted theft. They are soon released and thus continue with their reign of terror. They receive their just deserts when two wheels of the car they are racing around in, suddenly come off. The car crashes and then explodes, they are both killed. Two very sad stories indeed as the new acquaintances part for the day. The judge and the young man make a pact to administer real justice. They will invoke the death penalty on those who have committed heinous crimes but the state fails to punish. The judge passes details of the crimes to an executioner who will mete out real justice. He responds with the message, The executioner will travel. Will this unusual duo get away with it? A novel, suspense and a thriller with a surprising ending. This book recently updated contains local dialect and slang to add realism, this should not be confused with grammatical errors.
