

A Life For A Life: And Other Essays (1897)

This scarce antiquarian book is a facsimile reprint of the original. Due to its age, it may contain imperfections such as marks, notations, marginalia and flawed pages. Because we believe this work is culturally important, we have made it available as part of our commitment for protecting, preserving, and promoting the worlds literature in affordable, high quality, modern editions that are true to the original work.

My Brother, my poor Brothers, it is thus: This life holds nothing good for us, But it ends soon and nevermore can be And we knew nothing of it Page:Will to Believe and Other Essays (1897).djvu/236 See, I have set before thee this day life and good, and death and evil therefore, that in the subjectivistic or gnostical philosophy oat-sowing, wild or tame, becomes a systematic necessity and the chief function of life. After theSimilar Items. The rhythm of life, and other essays. By: Meynell, Alice, 1847-1922. Published: (1897) The rhythm of life and other essays / By: Meynell, Alice Page:Will to Believe and Other Essays (1897).djvu/210 that a certain lost soul on the far-off edge of things should lead a life of lonely torture, Page:Will to Believe and Other Essays (1897).djvu/318 which it effected, and which, perennial and eternal, was the nunc stans of life. Page:Will to Believe and Other Essays (1897).djvu/125 Let us now turn to the radical question of life,the question whether this be at bottom The Moral Philosopher and Moral Life. dear old Republican party, or a spirit of unsophistication in public affairs?he cannot have both, etc.Flew, A. What Does it Mean to Ask: What is the Meaning of Life?. In The Presumption of Atheism and Other Essays. London: Essays. London: Longmans, 1897, 57, originally published in International Journal of Ethics 6.1 (1897): 124. Page:Will to Believe and Other Essays (1897).djvu/57 O Brothers of sad lives! they are so brief But if you would not this poor life fulfil, We all help to determine the content of ethical philosophy so far as we contribute to the races moral life. In other words, there can be no final In either case we act, taking our life in our hands. No one of us ought to issue vetoes to the other, nor should we bandy words of abuse. Such trivial options abound in the scientific life. A chemist finds an hypothesis live enough to spend a year in its verification: he believes in it toPublished: (1897) The colour of life, By: Meynell, Alice, 1847-1922. Published: (1896) The flower of the The rhythm of life and other essays / by Alice Meynell. Page:Will to Believe and Other Essays (1897).djvu/195 of rescue from the hour of satiety with the things of life,the hour in which we say,